

DATABASE LINKS COLLEGE APPLICANTS WITH SUCCESSFUL MENTORS

 EDUCATION

AdmitSee is a peer-to-peer service that offers college applicants and their parents an alternative to expensive admission consultants.

A peer-to-peer social network enabling high schoolers to connect with college students for college application advice has raised over USD 1.8 million in seed funding. AdmitSee offers applicants and their parents an alternative to expensive college admission consultants while enabling college students to earn money as application mentors.

 ibart Stanford University '19 BS, Biology, Computer Science Accepted at: Stanford, Washington, Cal Poly	Background I am an incoming freshman at Stanford University and I am interested in Biology and Computer Science. From: Camas , Washington Gender: Male Race/Ethnicity: White Non-Hispanic Legacy: No Admission: Regular Decision Applied To: 10 schools Denied At: Is English First Language: Yes Other Language(s) Spoken: Spanish	Overview Profile contains <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Personal statement • 4 supplemental essays • 5 advice topics VIEW FULL PROFILE
-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------

AdmitSee, which launched in 2013, has already attracted 50,000 applications and the resource of 1,000 mentors. College students are paid USD 10 upfront for adding their information to the database, and incentivized to share as they're paid an extra USD 1-5 every time someone views their profile. High school students pay USD 75 per month to view the profiles of students from up to five schools of their choice, and can also pay extra to have queries answered by mentors or have their entrance essay reviewed.

